

Community Guidelines

Welcome to the Lystn community!

We are passionate about how much you can learn about someone just by listening to their voice. As we like to say, love is in the ear! That is why the Lystn experience is built around a simple principle: First listen, then look.

Let us start with the listening part. It is important that you create your voice recording using your own voice, and nothing else (that would just be weird). And do not use any explicit or sexual language – just keep it nice and normal like you would on a first date.

As for the look part, make sure that your photos are your own and of you (again, anything else defeats the purpose, right?). Pick a few photos where you look nice and decent - do not use any photos of unaccompanied minors, in bikini/swimwear indoors, with sexually explicit/pornographic material, or with explicit or graphic material of any kind. And no guns (it is not cool).

We are a community built around kindness and respect, and we (obviously) have a zero tolerance for hate speech, rude or abusive behavior, bullying and misogyny. Simply speaking, we want everyone to have a safe, comfortable, and enjoyable experience on Lystn. That is why we ask everyone to follow these guidelines along with our Terms of Use – anything else and your account may be terminated (we certainly hope that will not be necessary).

Have fun and listen well – love might just be in the ear!
